for south asian originating from rural environments in south asia, these kind of remedies were the only form of medication available, due to lack of doctors or facilities in such areas.